

Even Payments. Making Budgeting Easier.

National Grid Budget Plan

Hello John Smith,

Welcome to National Grid's Budget Billing plan that takes the "peaks and valleys" out of your energy bills..

How does this plan work?

Budget Billing takes the average amount that you usually pay on your National Grid bills in 1 year and breaks this amount up into 12 balanced monthly payments. You will still pay for the amount of energy you use every year, but this plan helps to even out the amount of your monthly bills. The program provides you more predictability, making it easier to anticipate your monthly energy costs. Your payment may adjust but you will always know exactly what will be due one full month in advance.

Can the payment amount change?

Yes. To ensure that you aren't paying too much, we review how much energy you use and the cost of your commodity every 4 months and make any changes that are needed.

What are some factors that might cause my budget amount to change?

- Warmer or colder temperatures will change the amount of energy it takes to cool or heat your home
- A lifestyle change, a change in the number of people living in your house, or a change in the appliances you use in your home

Budget Plan Example

Budget Amount $164 x 12 months = $1,968.00

Actual Consumption over 12 months = 1,964.41

Credit or Debit = $3.59 (credit in this example)

What happens if my Budget Billing is canceled or I default on my Budget Billing payments?

If your Budget Billing has defaulted, or you choose to cancel, the deferred balance will become the amount due on your next bill, in addition to the current charges for that billing period. Likewise if you have a credit balance when you cancel that money is credited off of your next bill.

Can I change the Budget Billing amount?

The amount you owe while on Budget Billing is automatically calculated and adjusted to be in line with your average usage, as well as any deferred balance that has accumulated. Since the amount owed is calculated

- Changes in the price of electricity

What happens if at the end of the year, I have overpaid or underpaid based on my actual energy usage?

If you paid for more energy than you used in the year, this amount will be automatically subtracted from your last bill of the year.

If you used more energy than you paid for in the year, this amount will be automatically divided over the next year so you can pay it off in smaller payments over time.

How will this affect your bill?

All of your bills will reflect the status of where you are at with your Budget Billing Plan. There are a few key areas to pay attention to on your bill:

- Installments Billed to Date – The amount you have been billed for on the current Budget Billing Season.
- Accumulated Actual Charges – The amount of actual charges based on your energy usage during the current Budget Billing Season.
- Deferred Balance – The difference between the Actual Charges and the Balanced Billing charges. The deferred balance will be listed as either "Balance Due Company" or "Balance in Your Favor after Payment of this Bill." You do not have to direct a payment to your account for this amount, as it will be spread out over your future bills as long as you remain on the Budget Billing plan automatically, to avoid future adjustments we recommend following the plan that is created by the system.

What happens if I decide to leave the Budget Billing program?

The Budget Billing program remains in effect unless you decide to cancel. You can remove your account from the program at any time by calling us directly or by accessing your account online. Keep in mind that if you elect to leave the Budget Billing program while you have a deferred balance, that balance will be applied to your next month's bill.

If I use another company for my energy supply, will my Budget Plan be applied to my supplier charges?

No: New York City customers who use another supplier will have only their delivery charges included in the Budget Plan. Please contact your ESCO to see if they offer this option for your supplier charges.
